

ES Acquires ClearWater Environmental

EnviroScience, Inc. is excited to announce that ClearWater Environmental Consulting <https://cwenv.com/>, based near Asheville, North Carolina, is now part of EnviroScience. ClearWater is a natural resource-based firm specializing in wetlands, permitting, and ecological and environmental services. The synergy between the two firms is extremely exciting, and this new relationship will collectively increase the capacity, geographic range, and expertise of both entities. One of the most compelling reasons for this acquisition was the similar culture that ClearWater founder/owner Clement Riddle has fostered with his employees, which mirrors EnviroScience's core values of Teamwork, Client Advocacy, Respect, Accountability, Quality, and Safety. Look for more information in the coming weeks.

EnviroScience is an environmental consulting firm that helps public and private sector entities monitor and manage water and natural resource issues throughout the United States. Our team of field scientists, divers, and engineers develop unique, cost-effective solutions for environmental and regulatory needs. We support our clients' environmental requirements concerning waterways, wetlands, endangered species surveys, ecological restoration, mitigation, stormwater management, laboratory testing, and regulatory compliance.